Home based Speech and Language Activities

To: Transition Studio Program

From: Mrs. Alford

Week: 3/30/2020 - 4/3/2020

Please talk to your parents or family members about the following topics: your favorite foods, your favorite animal, and chores do like. Remember to work on your good social skills. You can do this by introducing your topic of conversation and then being a good listener. A conversation takes at least two people. Present your topic, then listen for the other person’s response. Then respond back using information you have gained from the other person.

Week: 4/6/2020 - 4/10/2020

Please talk to your parents or family members about the following topics: your favorite type of music or song, what you can do to help someone, your favorite time of year. While working on your good social skills, remember to ask questions and make comments. Also remember to look at the person speaking to let the person know you are listening. These are all things that we have done in speech before. I hope you enjoy this review of your social language skills.

Week: 4/13/2020 - 4/17/2020

Please talk to your parents or family members about the following topics: what you like to do when it rains, a reason you are proud of yourself, and your best day ever. Present your topic and listen for the other person’s response. Also ask your listener to talk about the above topics from his or her point of view.

Week: 4/20/2020 - 4/24/2020

Please talk to your parents or family members about the following topics: tell about something you do very well, tell about what you like most in a friend, and tell about a party that would be fun to have. Remember that you and your family member can change roles from speaker to listener and listener to speaker. In a conversation we make comments, ask questions and answer questions. I hope you enjoy reviewing your social language skills at home.
